Short Bio

By inviting the listener into his personal world of experiences and emotions, Brooklyn based pianist and composer Daniel Meron awakens their own deepest desires and most sincere feelings with his music. A skillful improviser, Meron finds a way to demonstrate his unique playing style in brilliant compositions that are both sophisticated and lyrical, rich with influences from jazz, his homeland of Israel, and other folk traditions. Sky Begins (2016), Meron's second album, presents his original songs for which he also wrote the lyrics. Vocalist Maia Karo and Meron's trio journey through colorful harmonies to magical places in time and imagination. The band grooves hard on funky and world rhythms, shifting between energetic improvisation and intimate interaction.

This Was Now, Daniel's new album is scheduled to release on Rabbit Rabbit Rabbit Records on February 28th 2018, and is a result of his pursuit of a heightened awareness. After incorporating meditation into his life and creative work, Meron entered the recording studio to further explore this concept through the art of solo piano and improvisation. Playing minimally arranged to completely spontaneous versions of some of his favorite jazz standards and popular songs, Meron searches for sincere moments of inspiration, capturing a unique portrait of where he was emotionally, mentally and musically at that point in time.
